Claim Objections

1. The "1." is missing from the beginning of claim 1.

In claim 8 line 7, "networkhaving" should be --network having--.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claims 4, 7 and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 4, there is no antecedent bases for the multiplying step.

In claim 7, there is no antecedent bases for the multiplying step.

In claim 14, there is no antecedent bases for the transformer output signal. It would appear that claims 14 and 15 should be combined.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claims 1, 4, 14, 15, 19 and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Beutler et al. (USPN 6,008,681).

Fig. 1 discloses a noise isolated transformer T1, an intermediate signal 1, auxiliary noise-isolated support circuitry C3, a converted signal CLOCK and destination circuitry 37 performing the method recited in claim 1.

According to column 2 of the Specification, there are different voltage levels at the primary and secondary sides of transformer T1 as recited in claim 4.

Claims 14 and 15 are anticipated for the reasons above. Circuit 37 is seen to sink a compatible voltage from C3.

Further shown is an off-chip clock signal 16 as recited in claims 19 and 20. The CODEC circuit as described in the specification is seen to include analog circuitry.

Conclusion

6. Claims 8-13 appear to be allowable over the Prior Art of record. Claims 2, 3, 5, 6, 16-18 and 21 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but may be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
